

Nexplant Analytics Use Case

Analyze problems and take the right course of action

After returning to the office, engineer noticed that the expense increased due to repair under warranty on certain qualified products indicating failures during a particular period. Based on rigorous analysis of the outgoing qualified products, engineer directed a selective delivery of 1st grade products to premium customers asking for high quality and instructed an additional quality inspection on 5th grade products.

