Big-data analytics is used for manufacturing process to learn and collect data on facility deterioration, the frequency and level of anomaly, then identifies the cause of anomaly and predict timing for facility maintenance and replacement.