

Communications Network Service : Communications Network Design Service

The 3D animation method has been applied in order to preemptively eliminate potential issues during the project and increase the construction accuracy based on thorough analysis of the environment in which the communications system is implemented. An optimized process control tool has also been developed to enhance the wireless network data analysis process.

SAMSUNG SDS

