

Blockchain-based e-Contract

Due to the characteristics of the EPC project, there is a large volume of material procurement required.

In order to strengthen the management system for purchase contracts and quickly respond to policy changes, it is efficient to establish the authentication system based on blockchain.

That way, the time and cost required for the contract process will be reduced and it is possible to enhance the security by preventing counterfeit and falsification of documents.

SAMSUNG SDS

Blockchain-based e-Contract

